Dear Cousin -

your letter to Josephine with one enclosed for me came a few days after I came home. I am sorry to say I have little information concerning the Brundage family in addition to what Josephine showed you. I am intensely interested in our line but have been too busy to make any thorough searches for information. The gas shortage caught us just when we had planned to make some investigations. Did you go to Marion, O while Here? I have a clipping in Baltimore which says that Nathaniel Brundige and his brother-in-law (Anna's husband) were the first settlers in Marion County.

I would love to have the Morris pamphlet or any other information you care to pass on.

Perhaps when this terrible war is over and I have the time to spend on research we can get some real information on the origin of our family.

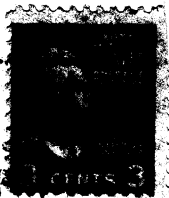

Sincerely yours,
Lettie Brundige

Monday.

Dear Cousin :-

Your letter and booklet were here when I returned to Baltimore last week.

I found the booklet extremely interesting and marvel at the work and research it represents. I wish I had as complete a record of my family.

Before continuing this letter I shall identify myself in the family group in front of our grape arbor - I am the one next to mother with the ancient hair do and pig huckle. You wouldn't recognize me now however. as my hair is quite gray.

Sorry I can't give you dates of deaths of Uncle George and Aunt Mary - at this time - but will send them when I go home again. While going through some old clippings this past summer I found their obituaries cut from the Circleville paper. I don't recall the exact dates.

These clippings are in a trunk which is rather hard to get at and I'm sure

Josephine would never be able to locate them -

Baldount County, Virginia is in the North western part of the state. Marlboro, N.Y. is only a short distance ~~from~~^{North of} New York City on the western bank of the Hudson - I drove through there twice two years ago and didn't realize it until I located it on a map a few weeks ago - I could have stopped there very easily - We were on our way home from the World's Fair.

Sorry I have so little information to give you - and many thanks for the Morris Records - Sincerely,
Lettie Brundage
